About Yelena Dudochkin

Concert rehearsal -- Yelena Dudochkin with Placido Domingo, Dimash Qudaibergen and fellow artists

Over the years, she has taken on many leading opera parts such as Violetta in La Traviata, Iolanta, Gilda in Rigoletto, and the Snow Maiden. Each of these roles shows a different side of her artistry, from lyrical sensitivity to dramatic strength.

She has performed on some of the world's most respected stages, including Carnegie Hall, Boston Symphony Hall, and Alice Tully Hall. Her musical path also includes important training experiences with legendary figures such as Mirella Freni and Elena Obraztsova, which clearly shaped her strong operatic foundation.

A Voice for Music as a Cultural Bridge

Alongside performing, she also speaks about the importance of arts in today's world -- especially how music can connect people across cultures and backgrounds. She has taken part in discussions and events such as the World Economic Forum, where she shares this vision on a global level.

Another important part of her current work is her involvement with the Virtuosos talent show.

Virtuosos Talent Show

Yelena Dudochkin is part of the Virtuosos family -- alongside artists such as Placido Domingo, Placido Domingo Jr., HAUSER, our favorite artist Dimash Qudaibergen, and many other prominent figures from the classical and crossover world. Within this inspiring artistic circle, she has taken an active role as part of the Virtuosos talent show's beautiful mission.

She has served on the jury during the show's special 10th anniversary edition and continues to take part in its events and initiatives. This ongoing involvement reflects not only her dedication as a performer, but also her genuine commitment to supporting and encouraging the next generation of young musical talent.

A Modern Classical Artist
